ORAL JUDGEMENT

The learned counsel for the appellants submits that this appeal is preferred from an exparte interim order which has since become final and another appeal in respect of the final order being A.O.No.264 of 1994 is filed and pending before this court. Under the circumstances, he submits that this appeal has become infructuous and can be disposed. The learned counsel for the respondent has no objection. Accordingly, this appeal stands disposed with no order as to costs.
